Blending the outdoors with the indoors, Conarch Architects bring you the swankiest address in town. Step into Penthouse Pāfekuto, a beautifully designed multi-level space that will inspire you to live large

Imagine waking up in bed to lush green views just outside your window. Imagine stepping out with a cup of coffee, onto a roof level terrace complete with trees and flowering plants, bathed in the glow of sunshine. Like what you see? Then you're going to love Penthouse Pāfekuto, designed by Conarch Architects.

Architects Rakesh Dhar and S.K. Goel founded this Delhi-based architectural design firm in 1988. Driven by an unbridled energy, they uphold the highest standard of professional ethics. What started off as a venture by two is now a firm with over 30 employees, working hard to design exceptional spaces that reflect their occupants' identities.

Taking their passion for design up a notch is Penthouse Pāfekuto that re-defines high-rise living. This multi-level penthouse in Ghaziabad offers 8000sq ft of indoor space and 6000sq ft of outdoor space across three levels. Their vision? To transform generic apartment units into inspiring living spaces reflecting the client's needs.

Led by architects S.K.Goel and Nitish Goel, Penthouse Pāfekuto was created when two apartments were combined into one luxury penthouse. It comes with five bedrooms, five baths, an office, two drawing rooms, two lobbies and a terrace. Well-lit through the day, it eliminates the need for artificial lighting. But even all that sunshine doesn't make it a sweltering spot. The outdoor terraces have deep overhangs, ensuring that the glass remains shaded, keeping out the heat.

The best part? Cantilevered floating wood steps with artistic fall protection against a Prussian blue backdrop. These stairs act as the protagonist of the house, through which conversation and light flow between floors. Merging the indoors with the outdoors, the bedrooms, living areas and kitchen have brilliant views of 'green' outdoor terraces. Some areas open out to these spaces, serving as a great spot to de-stress. The roof level terrace for instance, boasts of a 'Hydroponic Living Wall', Ficus Panda trees and a water feature attracting migratory birds.

Blurring the boundaries between architecture and interiors, Penthouse Pāfekuto promises a taste of the good life.
